Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Tuesday 18 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Further showers overnight, but turning drier during Wednesday afternoon.

This Evening and Tonight:
After a brief dry spell heading into the evening, a group of organised, possibly heavy, showers sweeps eastwards across the region overnight. These largely clear by morning, though some may persist, particularly around Somerset and Dorset. Blustery along southern coasts. Minimum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Wednesday:
Through the morning, showers continuing although less frequent than recently, but still possibly heavy. Drier and sunnier weather will move in for the afternoon, before rain approaches westernmost areas overnight. Maximum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Persistent rain on Thursday arriving from the west, with strong winds and coastal gales. Staying wet on Friday, winds remaining strong. Further scattered showers and sunny spells on Saturday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.